To assist in your attestation of PCI compliance, MyFBO.com warrants that its online system does not store sensitive authentication data after credit card authorization.

In point of fact, the MyFBO.com servers do not receive, process, transmit, or store primary account numbers, magnetic stripe data, card verification codes, or PIN numbers for any cards subject to the PCI Data Security Standard (DSS). As a result, the online system is not subject to the requirements of the PCI DSS.

In collaboration with AHT Services, MyFBO.com attests that SSL cryptography is used to safeguard sensitive cardholder data during transmission across the Internet.
